Let's put shame in an appropriate context shall we? What is shameful is that you and REDACTED either don't know or don't care about who your husband is or what he does to allow you to buy a teenager such a magnificent horse and world class training. What is he? A real, imported SWB? What ? $100,000 then $20k to fly him to the US? You do realize where this money comes from yes? Your husband colludes with his clients to steal from hardworking American inventors. He's a rapacious bully, misogynist and predator who demeans, threatens, then games the legal system to cause untold amounts of trauma to good, hardworking Americans so you can make posts like this. He's actually famous for it. As are his clients. That is where the real shame should be placed. From your posts you appear to be a nice , kind woman who is proud of her family but I suggest you get a reality check
